Dearest Mother

This is just a hasty line to enclose draft for one hundred and fifty dollars made out to your order. Please use your own discretion and purchase a wedding present with it for Sally or give it to her direct. You will know what it is best to do under existing circumstances and I hope this letter will reach its destination without unnecessary delay.

I have just received a letter from Elaine giving a few particulars of the wedding also enclosing two letters from you also those you forwarded from Aunts Dizzy and Miriam. Have no time just now to write at length but will do so again in the near future.

I was also glad to get the clippings you sent about Hughes latest foolishness. If they keep that man in the cabinet much longer he will be the means of defeating the Conservative government at the next general election.

It froze hard here last night but is again raining now. Really the wet weather seems unending and it is most trying to both man and beast.

Best love to all

In haste

your devoted son
Wood
