My Dear Ibb & Wood,-

Enclosed are the Round Robin agreement regarding stock in E. Leonard & Sons, Limited which has been carefully revised over by Sir George and covers all points necessary in my opinion. This will make all clear in case of death of any. The clause relating to my death on page two is a duplicate of a similar clause in my will which I have recently revised and left with Gibbons, Harper & Gibbons. My will you know leaves my interest to you two absolutely and with the present prospects of cleaning up our indebtedness will leave you with a good asset to work out your living from or dispose of it as you think best. The balance of my Estate all told, Oakwood, Stock, Insurance, etc, etc, goes to your dear mother to have the income from as long as she lives, but at her death that part is to be divided between your three sisters equally. In my opinion your mother and sisters has little enough, but you on the other hand have less valuable assett and more responsibility.

Please sign all three before a witness and return all three to Gibbons, Harper & Gibbons who will hold them in the mean time. In any case the whole arrangement is only for three years and can be changed or altered at any time with mutual consent.
