

Honour and Celebrate a new Western Graduate through the Digital Bookplate Recognition Program

"Libraries are not made; they grow." ~Augustine Birrell

A digital bookplate provides a unique opportunity to recognize an important person in your life. Western Libraries bookplates recognize the support of endowments and gifts, which help to refine and enhance libraries' collections, resources, services and individual and group study spaces for future generations of students, scholars and members of the community. The bookplate is a digital crest which is permanently linked to print and electronic book titles in the Western Libraries online catalogue.

Why honour your graduate with a digital bookplate?

He or she . . .

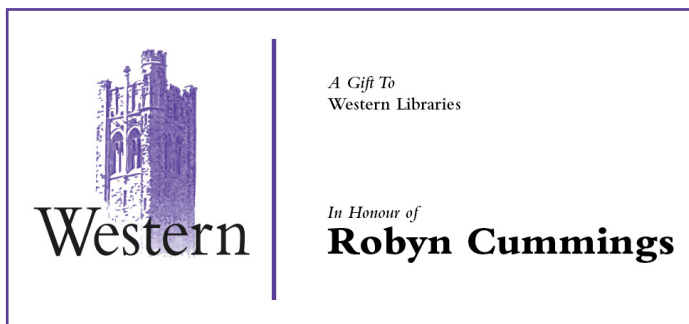

- enjoyed group and individual study in one of our library sites
- received expert research guidance from our dedicated library and archives staff
- accessed our online resources – any time, anywhere – 24/7
- made friends and lasting memories at the library

What do digital bookplates help to support?

Your dedicated digital bookplate will help to refine and enhance Western Libraries collections, resources, services, and study space for future generations of students, scholars and members of our community.

How do I create a digital bookplate?

Simply make a gift of $150 or more to one of Western Libraries four priority projects, in honour of your graduate. Your donation will be recognized through a digital crest (sample at right), displaying your tribute message to your loved one. Please fill out the reverse to create a digital bookplate today or visit www.westernconnect.ca/libraries to make a donation.
