In memory of

John and Grace Worrall

Donated and written in memory of John and Grace Worrall by son Reid Worrall. John Worrall was a WWII veteran and served Canada as a flying pilot officer. He flew Lancaster, Wellington, and Halifax heavy bombers during the war. He did his full tour of duty and was honourably discharged from the Royal Canadian Air Force. Grace Worrall worked as a medical secretary and had a job for several years at Victoria Hospital on South Street in London, Ontario. Grace was an excellent typist and shorthand writer. John and Grace were the parents of Reid Worrall, Laurie Worrall, and Scott Worrall.
