

Reproduction Order Information

All archival material, including photographs, audiovisual materials and digital images, is intended for research and private study only and may not be reused without written permission from Western Archives. Reproductions used for exhibits, published works, films, etc. must be properly credited and may not be electronically or otherwise copied without prior written permission.

Western Archives does not claim to hold copyright for all materials in its various collections. It is the responsibility of the patron to identify the copyright holder, obtain all required permissions before using archival material, and comply with all current copyright laws.

For information on reproduction costs, please consult the current fee schedule that is available separately.

Please allow two to three weeks for completion of photo orders.
