Arthur and Edmund Carty Papers

In order to improve access to more of the existing holdings of Western Archives copies of a number of preliminary finding aids are being made available. These preliminary finding aids, some of which were prepared many years ago, vary in degrees of completeness, detail and accuracy. Some provide only basic box listings of the contents of a fonds or a collection, while others provide additional background material. All are intended to be the starting point for access to the records and they should not be considered a definitive source of information on the full nature and contents of the fonds or collection. Questions about the information provided in the preliminary finding aids should be directed to archives.services@uwo.ca

The major contributor to the Carty papers was Arthur Chester Carty. He was born Arthur Chester Pudney in Rochester, New York, February 22, 1892. He had a sister, Olive, and brother, Victor. Their mother died when they were young - and when their father remarried the three children were adopted by their maternal-grandparents, Robert and Marguerite (O’Byrne) Carty. They moved to London, Ontario in 1905, were educated at London Catholic schools and Central Collegiate Institute. Later, Victor moved to the United States, while Olive and Arthur lived with their uncle and aunt, Edmund and his sister, Beatrice "Birdy" Carty.

Arthur began newspaper work as a reporter, and later sports editor, of the London Daily Advertiser after finishing school. He switched to the London Free Press in 1913 as reporter, night news editor. One of his special assignments was an interview with Arthur Conan Doyle when he visited London in 1914.

His skills as publicist was apparent in his work with London’s 1919 Victory Bond Campaign. As secretary to the manager, he produced a "Victory Loan Carnival" and arranged for extensive newspaper coverage. Also in 1919, Arthur broke the story on the disappearance of Ambrose Small, a theatre entrepreneur who was never heard from again.

Journalism ran in the Carty family. Edmund Joseph Carty (1872-1950), uncle of Arthur, was also involved in several London newspapers. He began his professional life with the London Free Press, worked with the London Advertiser in 1895, the London News from 1896 to 1903 of which he was city editor and later managing editor. Edmund worked as city editor of the London Advertiser from 1903 until 1913, then worked as day news editor at the London Free Press.

It was following this job that Edmund and Arthur joined forces to form the Carty News and Publicity Service. This was an independent news service specializing in western Ontario stories. The Cartys sold stories to various newspapers and journals including the Toronto Star, Globe and Mail, Toronto Sun, the World, Detroit Free Press, Windsor Star, Chicago Tribune, New York Times as well as Time Life and Scientific American.

One of the major projects undertaken by the Cartys was the Beck Memorial Fund which raised funds for the Beck Sanatorium. Familiar with Beck, both men also worked on a biography of this prominent Canadian.

Another venture undertaken by the Cartys was promoting the famous London to London flight in 1927. The Cartys were hired by Sir John Carling to publicize the event - while staying within the law. Technically, there was to be no advertising by breweries, but this flight was arranged to bring indirect attention to the Carling establishment. The flight took place in September of 1927, with Terrance Bernard Tully and James Victor Medcalf as pilots. Unfortunately, the airplane went down in the Atlantic soon after takeoff from a stopover in Newfoundland.

Also of note is the Cartys' work with the London and Port Stanley railway which they publicized, news coverage of the local Ashplant controversy, as well as human interest stories - such as Snooky the oldest cat in Canada. Both men were editors of the London Coronation Souvenir of 1937, and Arthur was sole editor of the 1953 London Coronation Souvenir. Both Cartys' were involved in publishing well regarded local histories such as: Milestones and London Centennial Review, both 1926 and London Fire Brigade History, 1927. Arthur edited Diary of Mr. H.C.R. Becher and A Thousand Arrows as well.

Arthur seemed to like controversy - he interviewed various politicians - including one interesting discussion between himself and Mitch Hepburn of which the latter completely denied. Of particular significance is Arthur's (and to a lesser extent, Edmund's) role as speech writer and "ideas man" for the Lieutenant Governor of Ontario, Ray Lawson, in 1947 and 1948, with whom the journalist had quite friendly and personal correspondence.

The Cartys were also involved in their community. Besides the Beck Memorial Fund, both were involved in the senate at the University of Western Ontario, Victory Loan Campaigns, the Irish Benevolent Society, the Knights of Columbus, the Red Cross, and local Separate School Boards. Specifically, Edmund wrote an historical series in 1925-27 in the London Advertiser entitled "Landmarks of London", was an honourary member of the London Typographical Union, member of the London and Middlesex Historical Society, member of the London Humane Society, director of the Canadian Society for the Advancement of Coloured People, and member of the Soldiers Aid Commission, 1914-17. Arthur was designer and editor of The Time for Family Prayer - a publication for Father Patrick Peyton's Family Rosary and Family Theatre of Albany and Hollywood, a Separate School Board Trustee from 1938 until 1972, he established the Knights of Columbus-Mocha Shrine annual baseball games for Shriners Crippled Children's Hospitals, and was the director of the London Property Owners' Association.

Custodial History

These archival materials were donated August 10, 1977 after Olive Cartys' death through her estate. The papers came from the Cartys' longtime home at 931 Richmond Street. Coloured slides of trips were to be held for external examination and selection by Miss MacKay, a friend of Olive Carty.
Arthur and Edmund Carty Papers

Included in this series are Edmund’s diaries (1933-48) and his wills, as well as information pertaining to the Carty Memorial Bursary, the Carty Trust Fund and Arthur’s conscription exemption from World War I. This series also contains documents relating to their travel plans. For family photographs see series VIII.

Series II: Carty News and Publicity Service

Dates of Creation: 1878-84, 1914-1968
Physical Description: 52 cm. of textual material

This series covers the news service established by Edmund and Arthur Carty in 1921. Included is correspondence to the Cartys as well as copies of letters sent by them. There are numerous bills, receipts, advertisements, research for articles, telegrams as well as newspapers including: The London Free Press, The Telegram, The Globe and Mail, Windsor Daily Star, Toronto Daily Star, Detroit Sunday News, London Daily News, and The London Advertiser. The Cartys also wrote articles and sent pictures to Time Life, Scientific American, and inhouse publications.

Arthur also set out to write a biography of Sir Adam Beck. Some early handwritten and typed drafts are included.

This series also includes correspondence between the Cartys and Ray Lawson concerning speeches given by Lawson when he served as Lieutenant Governor of Ontario and as Canadian Consul General in the United States.
Arthur and Edmund Carty Papers

Other noteworthy items included in this series are correspondence and newspaper clippings regarding Arthur's interviews with Mitch Hepburn; coverage of London's Ashplant controversy; as well as Arthur's publicity work with the London and Port Stanley Railway; Victory Loan; Red Cross; and Beck Memorial campaigns.

Two sports related items of note are the Notebook of Thomas Gillean, cricketer 1880-84 (also includes newspaper clippings on Tecumseh Baseball Club 1878) and the autograph of Tommy Burns, the boxer.

This series also includes articles and items dealing with World War II. There are various government directives dealing with Press Censorship for Canada. Arthur visited many area R.C.A.F. stations and kept several notebooks listing the airmen in each station that he used for human interest stories.

The Carty News and Publicity Service photographs are described in Series VIII.

Series III: London to London Flight

Dates of Creation: 1926-1974
Physical Description: 56 cm. of textual material

Series contains a collection of newspaper clippings on the London to London Flight, sponsored by the City of London (Ontario) with a prize put up by Carling's Brewery in 1927. They chronicle the preparation, flights, and the aircraft's disappearance. There are also numerous letters from Arthur seeking sponsors; exclusive press and film rights; and other publicity activities. There is a large number of pilots' applications (both men and women). Arthur, who was flight manager arranged for a special limited edition of a London to London Flight postage stamp.

Series IV: Family Investments

Dates of Creation: 1838-1973
Physical Description: 12 cm. of textual material

This series includes a land abstract for property owned by John Carty from 1838-1860; and correspondence, deeds, plans, and mortgages pertaining to land and buildings owned by the Carty family between 1910 and 1973. The family also purchased various stocks and bonds.

Arthur was also granted a patent for a Streetcar Announcer and Route Guide.
Arthur and Edmund Carty Papers

Series V: Public Service and Service Clubs

Dates of Creation: 1888-1969
Physical Description: 15 cm. of textual material

Series details the Cartys' involvement with the Irish Benevolent Society, both Edmund and Arthur were presidents; the Knights of Columbus; the Knights of Malta and The University of Western Ontario where Arthur served on the Senate. The Carty family also lent paintings to the London Public Library. The Cartys also collected a great deal of local material on civic, provincial and federal elections in the London area, local history, businesses, and services.

Series VI: Religious Involvement

Dates of Creation: 1914-1972
Physical Description: 24 cm. of textual material, 2 bound volumes

This series contains a great amount of material on the Family Rosary Crusades, both locally and internationally. These Crusades were directed by Father Peyton, who also enlisted Arthur's help as editor of a newspaper called Time for Family Prayer. The Crusades and the newspaper were used in several provinces and countries over several years. Arthur and Father Peyton corresponded for several years.

Also included is a series of letters by Arthur condemning the liberalization of the Catholic liturgy and certificates of benediction for Edward W. Carty.

For copies of The Time for Family Prayer (London ed.), see Original Newspaper Collection.

Series VII: Separate School Involvement

Dates of Creation: 1940-1972
Physical Description: 18 cm. of textual material

Series contains Arthur's records as Separate School Board member including letters, articles, and handouts dealing with equal grants for Separate Schools; Separate School Board meetings, committees reports, and land acquisitions for schools.

Also included is material from the Board of Governors for London Catholic High Schools and material from the various high schools. A file details the naming process for the Sir Arthur Carty Catholic School in 1972.
Series VIII: Photographs and Slides

Dates of Creation: ca. 1860's to 1972
Physical Description: 239 photographs, 250 slides

This series includes family material as well as material from the Carty News and Publicity Service. The slides are all of a personal nature. The remaining photographs are family trips to the United States; World War One military items; photographs of news items; and photographs made for insurance purposes. Most of the photographs housed in the collection are not identified. There is a photograph of mail for the London to London Flight and one of the Royal Visit in 1939.

Some of the photographs have been moved to the Photograph Collection (95 in total; of those 43 are Carty News Service; these are identified in some manner as Carty photos, unknown if other Carty photos were transferred to Photograph Collection without identifying their provenance or source). Only 13 Carty News Service photographs are still physically stored with the Arthur and Edmund Carty Papers (mixed within the files).

Series IX: Newspapers, Clippings, Ephemera

Dates of Creation: 1848-1970
Physical Description: 66 cm. of textual material

The series includes newspapers from 1881 to 1960. There are clippings, full pages and complete newspapers which are very brittle; fragile, please handle with care. Most of the items contain articles or photographs by the Cartys. Some were kept for the event - London event or history ie. Victoria Disaster, declarations of war, peace editions, and Coronations. (Copies of most of Arthur's articles are in Series II in photocopy form).

A unique item of ephemera is the diary for 1879 indicating reporters' assignments for the [London Advertiser]; also includes newspaper clippings on London municipal elections for 1886-87. Either Edmund and Arthur could have acquired this while working as reporters for the London Advertiser.

This series also contains miscellaneous ephemera including programmes for live theatre in London's opera houses in the early 1900's; a small collection of sheet music; various government publications and a cookbook.
